One contact for the whole order

Buying stone from Türkiye usually means several factories, a trucking company, a forwarder and a lot of messages in Turkish. We do that part. You deal with one person, in English, responsible for your order from the first quote to the loaded container.

We find the stone

We ask several producers for every request and show you the best options side by side, with photos of real stock.

We negotiate the deal

Price, grade and lead time negotiated in Turkish. Everything agreed goes into a written spec.

We check it at the factory

We visit during production and before crating, and check your order against the approved sample.

We get it to the ship

Trucking to İzmir, loading checked, and the documents right: invoice, packing list, certificate of origin, bill of lading.

What you can hold us to

- A reply within one business day
- One price, FOB İzmir, no fees on top; your contract is with us
- A free sample box before every order; nothing produced until you approve the stone
- Nothing loaded until you have seen it, in photos and video
- An independent inspector of your choice can check the order
- Grade, thickness tolerance, finish and packing written into every order

Who you'll be working with

Çağan, founder

I started Aegean Quarries to be the person stone buyers in the US and France need in Türkiye: someone who speaks both languages of the deal, knows which producer is right for which stone, and goes to the factory so you don't have to.

I have been in cross-border trade since 2018, when I started TradersLake, an Amazon business selling in Türkiye, the UK and Germany, which I ran for five years. I studied Information Management for Business at UCL in London, interned as a business analyst at Amazon UK, worked on category strategy at Armut, and most recently worked in product management at a pharmaceutical company.

Stone is a business where what arrives has to match what was promised. My job is to make sure it does.
